

New Merchandise for the New Year at the Judaica Shop

This month, in honor of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, several artists have incorporated this theme in their Judaica. The pink fused glass made by those touched by breast cancer is fired at the Gary Rosenthal Studio and turned into candlesticks, tzedaka boxes, menorahs, dreidels and mezuzot. The Rosenthal Studio donates 10% of the sales of these products to breast cancer research and awareness.

A Woman of Valor by another artist is an original collection inspired by a biblical poem and blessing honoring a woman in gratitude, praise and appreciation. This unique series of traditional and functional art that includes a goblet, menorah, tzedakah box, challah platter and latte mugs is an expression of admiration and celebration of all women. A portion of all their sales are also donated towards the education and research of breast cancer causes, treatment and the search for a cure.

Kakadu Art and Design, the whimsical wood functional accessories created in Israel are back! These colorful funky handcrafted wooden products are a delight and make great hostess or bar/bat mitzvah gifts. The colorful distinctive art motifs on their challah boards, menorahs, and tzedakah boxes have interesting stories behind them. Each item is handcrafted wood that is handpainted with a signature Kakadu art motif, and lacquered to perfection for water resistance and durability. Throughout the process—from the selection of wood to quality inspection—Kakadu is committed to recycling and conservation.

Several new toys for children are perfect for the Jewish High Holiday celebrations. An eight-piece soft colorful plush Rosh Hashanah Set will provide hours of fun for children during the Jewish New Year. This Rosh Hashanah kit can help ease the burden on the little ones by keeping them entertained and making them feel more a part of the holiday. The set includes round challahs, Kiddush cup, candles, shofar, apple and honey in a clear vinyl case with handle for easy carrying and storage. Now you can give your child "Rosh Hashanah to go"! Ages 2-10.

For ages three years and up, try this colorful Rosh Hashanah set scaled down perfectly for little hands. The Kidkraft set, made of painted wood, includes all the special Rosh Hashanah items and foods: two candlesticks with candles, Kiddush goblet, two round raisin challahs, honey jar, sliced apple, shofar and storage bag. Teach your children the traditions of Rosh Hashanah with Kidkraft's wooden set, a timeless, heirloom-quality line that children – and their parents – love.

A plush lulav and etrog set is the perfect way for kids to share in the celebration of Sukkot. Now the younger set can shake a lulav and etrog without any fear of breaking or dropping it. This stuffed lulav and etrog play-set makes a fun gift for Sukkot. It also has its own handy plastic carrying case. The etrog is attached to the lulav with a velcro fastener.
